Biography

Marjolaine Sirieix collaborates in various projects related to promotional art events, publishing and contemporary drawing practices. She first exhibited her creations at Patricia Dorfmann, agnès.b, Colette and the gallery Arts Factory. She self-publishes her drawings in her Corporate fanzine as well as in various artistic or literary magazines available at Colette, and the bookshop-gallery Le monte-en-l'air. Meanwhile, she collaborated in developing visual identities for the Bureau du Fooding (events featuring artists and food) and for artistic agents like Creative Syndicate and punctually created illustrations, flyers, roughs, websites, and worked as an artistic director.

She also realized designs for the fashion industry including Calvin Klein, American Apparel, and the Japanese store Graniph which published several of her drawings printed on tee-shirts.

In 2007, thanks to her being a multi-talented artist, she wrote editorials for the hip' girl's magazine Technikart Mademoiselle. Recent illustrations were published in the French press such as the Inrockuptibles, Technikart, Technikart Mademoiselle, à nous P.A.R.I.S. and Graniph / Japan.

Recently, she got herself noticed by designing the electro duet SportoKantes's visual identity under the French label Village Vert.
